Power Board; and Aid for the Schools
As Our Town Nears 10,000

Hope will hold a municipal election next week. Voters interpret a campaign in terms of candidates, but a newspaper that isn't in politics discusses issues rather than men. The biggest issues before Hope today aren't political—they are simply the result of our town's growth from a village to a city now nearing 10,000 population. The biggest issues don't bear on any one election—but they present a common community problem which every administration must attempt to solve after the elections are over.

Ever since its beginning as a municipal enterprise the Hope Water & Light Plant has been operated directly by the city government. It has been at one time or other operated by every political faction in our town, and always successfully. It has furnished good service, made money, erected public buildings without extra land tax, and has enabled Hope to get along without many of the nuisance taxes that cities not having municipal plants have been compelled to charge businesses and individuals.

But our municipal utility is vast and far-flung today compared to those early beginnings; it is a business enterprise that serves the surrounding countryside as well as the people of Hope.

It is time we considered putting the municipal plant under a power board. The board might be appointed by the council, or elected by the people; but in either case the board members would serve for long terms, and would be responsible for operation of the plant.

This is no new idea. It was suggested several years ago when Conway, a city smaller than ours, put its own municipal plant under a special commission. But Conway did that because it wanted to borrow some money against the plant in order to help out the colleges that are situated there.

Hope has no thought of borrowing money against its own plant. But ever since the 1940 census showed us to have made the largest population percentage gain in the state we have had notice served on us by unescapable facts that the Village of Hope has grown up to be the City of Hope.

And a city must recognize sooner or later that a business undertaking the size of a municipal water & light plant operates to better advantage under a long-term commission than under a short-term council.

The other municipal question we are dealing with today concerns the city and the Hope public schools.

I have been on record for several years, back when I served a term on the school board, as favoring the tax recognition of the public schools by the City of Hope.

Being a municipally-owned enterprise the city's water & light plant is exempt from local taxation just as any other city-owned property is. But as the city's position grows relatively better the position of the public schools accordingly grows worse.

And the schools are going to be much worse very suddenly. If you stop to think about it, you realize that all the school-children in the Hope district above the sixth grade are rammed into one building, the high school. Half of the total of 12 grades are in that building; and if you expect to continue matters like that indefinitely without putting up a junior high school building then you are in for an unpleasant surprise.

But the city has a big electric and water plant which, except for occasional grants by the council, and certain free service of water and electricity, doesn't help the public schools in the same manner it would if a private corporation owned it.

If the plant should be worth say $500,000, and were on the tax books for half that amount, $250,000, the 18-mill school tax would amount to $4,500 a year. That is the salary of six or more school teachers, or it could be the major part of the cost of financing a new junior high school.

Nothing about taxes is popular. But this is merely a matter of redistribution of taxes that are, and always have been, collected. For under a private utility a certain part of what you pay on your electric bill would go to the schools. But it doesn't in Hope.

I don't think the schools ought to "sponge" on the city. But I think the city ought to make a voluntary flat cash settlement to the schools each year in lieu of taxes and then expect the schools to get along strictly without any further municipal help.

Our local schools have to take care of a great many farm children, and yet we get no help from the state equalizing fund. Furthermore, you read in the papers this week that the state equalizing fund is itself "broke" and will be discontinued next spring unless new revenue is raised.

But Hope can solve its own problems. I have outlined two of them, along with possible solutions. Both have been discussed freely with many and different groups, and some time we are going to have to move along these lines.

British Reject Peace Motion by Huge Vote

Labor Party's Peace Proposal Voted Down 341 to 4

LONDON—(AP)—A silent, disapproving House of Commons rejected by a overwhelming vote of 341 to 4 a motion by three members of the Independent Labor Party Thursday for British to state her war aims and seek peace immediately. "If necessary, in a spirit of compromise," because, they said, "there is no certainty of a great military victory."

Supporting the motion, Samuel Silverman, Liverpool Laborite, declared the moment had arrived for a statement of peace aims—"when we have convinced the world of our capacity to survive"—had now arrived.

Authors of the motion are members of the extreme left wing of Britain's labor movement.

Jack Lamb's Hunting and Fishing Pictures to Be Shown at Hope City Hall on Friday Night

Nationally Known Sportsman Bringing Film to Hope

Jack Lamb, widely known sportsman, will bring his celebrated collection of technicolor moving pictures to the city auditorium Friday night at 7 p. m. for a free showing under the auspices of the chamber of commerce and the Hempstead County Wildlife Association.

These pictures have created a sensation in Eastern cities, and have been proclaimed by the Eastman company as outstanding both from the standpoint of realism, composition and photography.

Running the gamut of subjects, Lamb has shot countless thousands of feet of film from the Hudson Bay to South America. He will show pictures of Bellinghams' azalea gardens at Mobile; some of the beautiful flower gardens at Charleston, and others. For sportsmen, he will bring to the screen for the first time, America's most celebrated quail shot, Bill Lourey, and his $5,000 bird dogs. Fishermen will come in for some thrilling moments when Lamb unrolls pictures of himself fishing in the Florida everglades.

Other pictures that will entertain all classes are those of Western rodeos and round-ups on some of the huge ranches. Lamb knows almost every cowboy in the West and has access to such famed ranches as the King Ranch of 3,000,000 acres; the Matador which covers 730,000 acres and runs 50,000 cattle; and the celebrated Pitchfork Ranch in Texas which stretches through three counties. All of these pictures in full color are said to be the most realistic and authentic ranch pictures ever produced.

Early this year Lamb made an extensive trip of 11,000 miles into Old Mexico where he photographed many interesting and colorful events as well as much of the countryside. Returning by way of Arizona, he also made pictures of the scenic wonders of that state.

He has enough pictures to run for 110 hours, and it does not take any stretch of the imagination to realize what a magnificent show can be selected from this vast collection for a two-hour run.

Lamb, and his beautiful show will only appear in six cities in the entire state. The show here will be entirely free, and all art lovers; flower enthusiasts; sportsmen; in fact everyone who enjoys the great outdoors is invited.

Friend of Alton Doctor Reports London Surviving

Young Writer Sends Optimistic Letter to U. S.

Dr. Robert H. Foster, physician at the Alton CCC Camp, received a letter this week from an English friend, Charles R. G. Stuart, who has returned home to London in which the author reports optimistically on the British Capital's withstanding of the German aerial siege.

The letter in Part Follows: London, W. 5, Oct. 14th, 1940

It is true that since I last wrote you a tremendous lot of things have taken place, and we are just about really getting accustomed to air raids, getting several warnings per diem of 24 hours. Nevertheless, I can safely tell you now that we all are so accustomed to them that no one worries in the least when the old siren sounds, but we only think about the raid if we actually hear sounds of bangs above us, so things are not as bad with us as perhaps you may have thought. Often we get the siren, but not so often the bangs, so the raids are not so bad as you may think, though the night ones are most tiresome, and at night anything like that is always more frightening than by day. So far, however, my home is perfectly all right, and also, when I look out of my window there, I cannot see a scrap of damage, no matter how hard I try, so you will see that much of the damage is exaggerated. Actually the same thing is true of the office where, incidentally, I am writing this, and on looking from the window here, overlooking a well known street intersection, I cannot discern a spot of damage from here either. So please allow me to tell you that though a lot of damage has been done in London so far, it is really true that you must look far for it to find it, and any statement that London is in ruins cannot be called ought else but the grossest misrepresentation of the

6 Die in Crash of Airliner

United's Mainliner Falls Near Chicago Airport

BULLETIN

CHICAGO—(AP)—The death early Thursday of two men brought to eight the number killed in a crash of a United Air Lines plane near the Chicago Municipal Airport. Eight others were injured. From the lips of survivors and examination of wreckage, investigators sought explanation for the accident which occurred when the plane, inbound from the east, plunged nose first into a vacant lot a scant 200 yards from the airport Wednesday night.

Six persons were killed Wednesday night when a United Airlines Mainliner plunged into a vacant lot near the municipal airport. Nine others were injured, at three critically, when the big ship fell in murky, snowy weather. The company reported the dead were:

Capt. Philip Scott, Chicago, the pilot, a veteran of eight years of service.

First Officer George S. Young, Chicago, co-pilot.

Lee F. Haneline, Chicago, division superintendent of reservations for U. A. L.

Wilbert J. Austin, Cleveland, president of the Austin Company, engineers and builders.

S. W. Moore, United States Ordnance Engineers, Cleveland.

Miss Jane Selby, Chicago, Curtis Candy Company employee.

The injured:

Paul Ryan, Cleveland, president National Refining Company, condition fair.

T. F. Paulson, Montgomery Ward & Co., Wilmette, Ill., condition poor.

Richard R. Pott, Boston, Cal., government employee, condition good.

Stewardess Florence Little, Chicago, condition fair.

Owen M. Frederick, Olmstead, O., civilian engineer's office, United States Engineers, condition poor.

George Haig, Sherwin-Williams Company, Cleveland, condition fair.

The Mainliner, with 13 passengers and a crew of three aboard, dropped about a block and a half from the airport about 6 p. m. while snow was falling.

Witnesses said the plane, inbound from Cleveland and the East, brushed a three-story apartment building with its wing, struck power lines supported by a small garage and plumed to the earth a few feet from a row of houses. The nose was pushed back into the fuselage and flames spread from the gasoline tanks.

A. U. A. L. spokesman said the ship had circled the airport 28 minutes waiting for the Traffic Control Department to give it clearance to the airport.

Hammons Says 1940 Is Worst Season So Far

First Year One of His Teams Lost More Games Than They Won

By PAUL JONES

Foy Hammons, veteran Arkansas coach of 22 seasons and present Hope Bobcat mentor, after admitting in an interview here Thursday that 1940 was the most disastrous year he had ever coached, didn't seem a bit depressed over the outcome and kept pointing out with pride that 21 squadmen would return next year. The Bobcats won one of twelve football games.

"The reason I don't mind losing so badly," Hammons said, "is because I know my boys were giving me all they had and fought hard all the way."

"About three mistakes were made in every game that cost us touchdowns," he continued, "but these plays and every game would be close, because no team ran over us."

Record Broken

This is the first year that a Hammons-coached team failed to win more games than they lost and never before in a single season have they lost more than five games. It was also the first season that a pass interception was run back for a touchdown by an opposing team.

The veteran coach pointed out that of 35 squadmen last year only six returned and only three of them were lettermen. Jimmy Starn, lone backfield letterman to return, has been out most of the year with injuries. The team was two years young, averaging 16, and approximately 22 pounds lighter. Out of the 21 players to return in 1941 the majority have three years to go.

The Bobcats failed to improve much until the last three games. Perhaps their best game was against the much-favored Pine Bluff team here Thanksgiving day when they outplayed the Zebras but lost 14-13.

Coaches in 22 Years

Hammons coached in Arkansas 22 years, beginning his career at Arkansas State, Jonesboro and going to

2 Years' Prosperity Likely, Is Forecast

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—Two years of prosperity from the defense program was forecast Wednesday by William M. Martin Jr., president of the New York Stock Exchange. "But it will be false prosperity," he told interviewers, "unless private industry expands more of its money and turns out more products that are needed by the ordinary man in the street."

The war itself, he forecast, either would "end in the next six months or last for several years." After the war he predicted better trade relations would be developed between the Americans.

Antique Tea at Christian Church Is Outstanding Affair

The winter season was charmingly ushered in Wednesday afternoon by the antique tea held in the new social room of the First Christian church.

This spacious room lent itself gracefully to the arrangements of lovely antique furniture on which was displayed antiques from about 40 prominent families of Hope.

The displays included old glass, China, silver, bed spreads, clothes, old musical instruments, Bibles, albums, rare old needlework, and even an oak yoke and a spinning wheel.

The tea table, with its lovely silver service, delicious sandwiches, and dainty Christmas cookies, was effectively lighted by Christmas candles surrounded by red mandarin berries.

The hostesses, in costume, were Mrs. J. P. Gwin as Martha Washington, Mrs. B. L. Rettig in a black beaded velvet gown of 1900, Mrs. H. C. Whitworth in an authentic 1902 model, Mrs. Fonzie Moses and Mrs. C. D. Dickinson as colonial ladies, Mrs. Harry Phipps attired in the 1880 model, Mrs. Walter Carter as the sad widow of 1865, Mrs. Odell Luck in black tulle and Mrs. Joe Olmstead in yellow lace, and Mrs. Henry Hicks as a belle of 1865.

Mrs. Alvin Iverson, who also wore an old-fashioned dress, furnished the music for the afternoon.

About 75 guests registered during the afternoon. Several local furniture stores contributed some of the antique furniture used.

Franchot Tone, as Tenderfoot Hero of a Western, Shatters Tradition

HOLLYWOOD — As a slight but encouraging indication that the movies are growing up, I commend to your attention the character of Franchot Tone in "The Trail of the Vigilantes."

Until a short while ago—about the time touches of high satire made a hit in "Destry Rides Again"—nobody would have dreamed of showing the hero of a western in anything but a thoroughly heroic light.

But Tone is a tenderfoot, and he remains a tenderfoot. As an eastern peace officer who goes into the cow country to nab some evildoers, he's a terrible horseman. He has to have a hitch rail or a box or something to mount his nag. Even when the outlaws are pursuing him he must waste precious seconds by climbing to the edge of a watering trough, and from there into the saddle.

With such a situation, most directors would have a leading man riding like a centaur—with the aid of doubles—by the beginning of Reel 3. Allyn Dwan, though, keeps Tone bouncing around, awkward but game, all the while the picture. Once he rides into a saloon and is bucked off into a chandelier.

At the end, triumphant in his mission and having won the girl, Tone exuberantly makes a dash for his horse and you feel sure that this time he's going to succeed in leaping aboard. And he might, too, except that the horse tries to be helpful and kneels suddenly, with the result that Tone goes hurtling over him and into the dust.

mothers present.

The meeting closed by the singing of Christmas carols by the group, after which a social hour was enjoyed.

Handless Hunter Gets 400-Pound Bear

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—(P)—John Tamplin of nearby College Place hasn't any hands, but this fall he bagged a 400-pound brown bear.

Tamplin's hands were amputated seven years ago. He replaced them with ingenious mechanical equipment of his own planning, and complementing this with equally ingenious devices on his rifle, became proficient as a hunter.

The bear charged at him after he fired two shots, and a third felled the animal near his feet.

U. S. Losing an Air Battle

It is all very well to talk about a good neighbor policy with Latin America and to found an Export-Import Bank whose function it will be to help trade relations with the countries to the south of the United States.
But something is wrong when Germany and Italy are allowed to beat the U. S. in the extremely important battle of the air.

Like it or not, radio has become an immense factor in the field of diplomatic strategy and in the battle for business.

There is danger that the United States will make the same blunders in handling Latin America that Great Britain did in broadcasts to the Arabs.
It came to British notice that the Italians were sending daily and nightly broadcasts to the Moslem world of the Near East from a powerful station at Bari. So the British jumped in to counter-broadcast. But their transmissions bored the Arabs. The programs were too British. The Italian ones were sickly Arabic.

Just about the same thing apparently is happening in the battle in the air of Latin America. Many broadcasts from the United States mean exactly nothing to Latin Americans.

They are in English.

It appears also that American broadcasters, even when using Spanish,
think of Latin America as one community speaking one idiom.

Excluding vast Brazil, whose language is Portuguese, the Spanish spoken in various parts of Latin America differs widely.

Argentina, Uruguay, Paraguay, Chile
and Bolivia speak one kind. Central American and Caribbean lands speak another. The former group happens to possess 65 per cent of the radios.

Only about one-quarter of U. S.
broadcasts are in Spanish. The Germans and Italians keep up Spanish programs all day long.

The Axis countries carefully watch their timing. Americans make the mistake often of sending programs
when people are in bed.

The Axis broadcast supply what they think Latin America demands in programs. U. S. broadcasts are said often to neglect this. Favorites in Latin America are high class operatic music, concerts by international stars,
the best Hollywood stuff and, above all, the news which, unlike that from Axis countries, is free from bias.

If ever there was something to put upon the plate of Nelson Rockefeller's Committee to Co-ordinate Cultural and Commercial Relations with Latin America, this is it. Good will,
a common front against "isms" and good business are involved.

The "only-hobby" in the family. Even though Mama does all her own work,
Papa spends money for golf, on poker,
on photography—or whatever.

Not that Mama complains. She wants Papa to be happy. More than that, she knows she has to keep him happy to keep him. So she encourages the hobby.

That is all fine and good, but it is every woman's business to see that she gets a little of the cream, too. After the family is clothed and fed and Papa has his hobby, Mama ought to look out for herself and see that she has the money for something that is fun.

Maybe she wants good clothes, maybe she wants a hobby, maybe she wants a piece of jewelry. But whatever it is, she ought to make sure that she gets it.

Husbands—even the best of them—
don't think of allowing something in the family budget for Mama to waste
on herself.

Papa is Often Just Thoughtless

They think they are indulging Mama in a whim when they agree to her buying a rug for the living room. It never occurs to them that she should have an amount of money equal to what they spend at bars and on golf courses.

Mama deserves some of the cream.
And she can have it, too, if she just bakes up her mind to look out for Mama. Papa won't mind—he'll even be proud of her hobby or her little luxuries once she demands and gets them.

Voorhis Points Out That His Law Has Two Sharp Edges

WASHINGTON — American Communist may have laid up new troubles for themselves when they cut the formal ties binding them to the Comin-tern.

They did it chiefly to get out from under the Voorhis act, which will go into effect in January and will require any political organization subject to foreign control to register with the attorney general. What they may have done, however, was put themselves right in under the act in a big way.

That, at any rate, is the belief of the law's author, Congressman Jerry Voorhis of California.

Voorhis points out that the law is a double-edged weapon. A political organization subject to foreign control is obliged to give the Department of Justice the names and addresses of all its officers and all its members or active supporters. Theory is that if the Communist Party, or the German-American Bund, should comply with that law the exposure would practically end its effectiveness.

The other edge is this: If an outfit which is suspected of having foreign ties refuses to register, the Department of Justice will then have authority to investigate it from top to bottom to see whether those foreign ties do in fact exist.

The department has not before had that power. It could never do much in the way of investigating the Communist Party, simply because the party was perfectly legal. It'll still be legal,
after the Voorhis act goes into effect
—but it'll also be legal for the FBI to look into things to see if the party's claim that it is independent of Moscow's control is justified.

If they don't register, the Department of Justice certainly ought to go into it very carefully to see if there aren't other aspects of foreign control aside from direct affiliation," says Voorhis.

Incidentally, the Voorhis bill also gives the FBI a good chance to go through the Bund with a fine-tooth comb, or to look into the affairs of such outfits as the Silver Shirts.

One Christmas List That Needs to Be Cut Down

—male or female—since 1921. Thus, of the 34,661 Japanese aliens still in Hawaii, there would be only a very, very small number of males who could possibly be of "the dangerous age" from a military standpoint, even if all of them were sympathetic to Japan, which many observers insist they are not.

See Another Trip

Some facetious fellows hereabouts say that the upshot of it probably will be another congressional junket to Hawaii, like that in 1933; that the congressmen will vote "to inspect" the Islands again, take a pleasant journey out that way at a seasonable time of year; return and report that they would all be very happy to see Hawaii the 49th state and there let the matter rest—at least until the world settles down.

Latins Leave Laugh Trail

Recent Meetings Created Some Difficulties

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Closer relations and greater mutual respect and understanding undoubtedly resulted from the tour of American defense establishments by ranking South American military men. Their hosts among army dignitaries believe their visitors were genuinely impressed with the potential power lying beneath the visible defense of fort and in man yeases American officers were equally impressed with the professional and personal qualities of the Latin guests.

The problems incident to entertaining distinguished guests far from home, and strangers not only to their hosts but to each other, were many and trying.

Army ingenuity was strained to the utmost to meet the demands suddenly thrust upon it.

Diet was always a problem, and many an army cook did handsprings to fill demands which would precede by wire the arrival of the guests. This general could eat no meat. That general required a certain kind of tea. The other general must have cakes made of rice flour.

Who sits where at dinner is perhaps even more important among generals than among diplomats. At one civilian dinner arranged for the Latin military men, one table had a place reserved for each general with the tour—others with lesser rank were allowed to find whatever places turned up.

But one representative indignantly stalked out and went back to his native home because he, while only a colonel, is yet chief of staff of his country.

Bandmasters and their musicians sweated industriously over the scores of unfamiliar national anthems which had to be played perfectly and in accordance with minute instructions. The proper ruffles and flourishes had to be rehearsed minutely, as not even the appearance of any slight could be tolerated among representatives of countries jealous of prestige among themselves. Officers still speak feelingly of one such national anthem which required nearly eight minutes to play through once. When followed by the Star-Spangled Banner, this meant nearly 10 minutes of standing at rigid salute.

If you don't think that's something to remember, try it some time.

Language of course created some difficulties. The army has many officers who speak Spanish and French with more or less fluency, but Portuguese is not so commonly known.

Occasionally the language barrier was too high. A demonstration attack by tanks, for instance, is known in army slang as a "rat race." One American officer who laughingly called his Latin guests' attention to this bit of slang, was met only by a puzzled and elevated eyebrow. The general just didn't make anything of this quaint Americanism. Desperately the American host tried a literal translation, "Corrida de raton" (coursing of the rat) he offered.

"Ah," said the general, his face lighting with sudden comprehension, "Mickey Mouse!"

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers believe nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination with stinging and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 10 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Columbus Wins Three Games

Tigers Take Series From Saratoga Tuesday

Tuesday night, December 3, the "Bull Dogs" of Saratoga played three return cage games at Columbus, the first game getting under way at 7:00 o'clock. These games marked the second meeting of the two schools this year, Columbus winning all three contests.

In the first game the junior teams met in a slow but closely matched contest, with the "Tiger" cuts finally taking the count by the score of 12 and 5.

The second game was the hardest fought one of the night, with both teams playing chiefly a defensive game and neither club ever being more than 5 points in the lead. At the end, the Lady Tigers were out in front, 25 to 22, thus ending the 27 to 25 defeat handed them on the Bull Dogs' court a month ago.

Columbus' senior boys' were hard-pressed to win their sixth straight game of the season, being held to a 11 to 8 count during the first half; however the rambling Tigers increased this 3 point margin to 10 before the final whistle, the battle ending 27 to 17 in the Cats' favor.

On Friday night, December 6, Columbus will send three cage teams to Emmet for games. The Emmet school is said to be best stronger club this year, and the Tigers are expecting plenty of fight out of this Nevada county quintet when they attempt to win their lucky seventh game.

IF YOUR NOSE "CLOSES UP" TIGHT AT NIGHT

HINDERS BREATHING—SPOILS SLEEP

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE
Here's mighty good news... if your nose "closes up" at night and makes breathing difficult, put 3-purposes Vicks Vapo-r-nol up each nostril. Vapo-r-nol does 3 important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes; (2) soothes irritation; (3) helps flush nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus, relieving transient congestion. It brings more comfort, makes breathing easier, invites sleep.
...And remember, it helps prevent colds from developing if used in time.

truth. Myself I feel that the whole thing is a case of luck, and I seem to be basing my philosophy of life now on the Shakespearean saying "Cowards die many times before their death"; and just say that if I am to be unlucky, I shall be and nothing I can do will alter it; if not, well then I shall be lucky and then why undergo all the tortures in vain?

So I try to carry on with all my activities as reasonably and normally as I can, and that is the best. Of course I take certain very sensible precautions in order not to tempt fate, such as sleeping down stairs as we all do and things like that, but otherwise we carry on quite normally, and if we hear a bomb explode give thanks that we were not the unlucky ones. However I'm pleased to say that we have not been too badly off where I live and noise is our worst enemy so far. For some obscure reason I, too, seem to have been standing up to raids far better than I thought I would and now sleep through a raid quite like anyone else sleeps, and so have succeeded in preserving much of my former sang-froid. I never thought I would react in this way, but I am glad.

I found that I was getting very jumpy, due to hearing too many rumors and not seeing the truth for myself, but now that I am in the center of things, I can see and assess matters in their true perspective once more, which is all important I think. (The writer of this letter is a freelance author, and has been living in a London suburb, up till recently; now is with an advertising agency, and working in the city.) You've no idea how some rumors get around now. For example, I was told that a certain street had been demolished entirely in a raid, and presented a ghastly spectacle. Well, half an hour ago I walked down it, and may say that not one window was broken nor was one slate dislodged so far as I could see, and in view of the rumor, I was keeping my eyes well skinned! You will see that when such tales reach the suburbs, in magnified condition that they are rather liable to cause some depression so, now whenever I hear them, I always check up, and if as usual I find them false or gross exaggerations, well I just let the truth be known I repeat again you must not swallow any stories that cross the ocean telling you that all London has ceased to exist, etc., as they are lies of the most fantastic nature. One hears a lot about some folks being killed. I know, but one hears nothing about the millions unhurt. The same applies to buildings and streets too.

Nevertheless, I feel the inability to go out of an evening to see friends most terribly, but under present conditions it is high-falootin to do so as the street is no health resort when bits and pieces are liable to be falling from above. I have steel helmet which I have with me everywhere, but that does not say that everything will single out my head for attack solely. I think the next time I make a visit to my tailor I'd be wise to invest in chain mail, and then I could perambulate with impunity. Well, I suppose that things will soon get better, or that I shall get so used to a stay indoors life that I shall not worry further on the subject, so that's that."

WPA Employees Urged to Get Private Jobs

WASHINGTON — (AP)— The Work Projects Administration advised its 1,817,000 enrollees Wednesday to be constantly on the lookout for jobs in expanding private and public industries.

Howard O. Hunter, action WPA com-missioner, said those who did not accept such offers of employment automatically would be dropped. If they took jobs and lost them, through no fault of their own, they would be eligible for reinstatement, he said.

Workers, he said, should accept temporary or permanent jobs wherever available under fair conditions. Among "fair conditions," he mentioned payment of prevailing wages.

Hammons Says

Pine Bluff two years later. He coached five years at Pine Bluff, five at Ouachita College, three at Monticello A. & M. and for the past seven years at Hope.

Ouachita and Pine Bluff
Among the many teams he has coached, he believes that the 1927 squad at Ouachita was the best one. They tied for the state title that year. In high school circles his face beamed when the great 1925 Pine Bluff squad was mentioned. In that year the Ze-bros won 16 games and both state and national championships. Next to the Pine Bluff team he picked the 1939 Hope team. Before leaving Hammons reminded that while coaching in Pine Bluff his 1923 track team walloped Little Rock and the Tigers haven't lost a meet since that time.

Hammons announced that the following football men would receive sweaters: Kendall Smith, Charles Bundy, Curtis Breeding, Jack Bradshaw, Howard Cumbie, Mack May, Floyd Chance, Bill Rounton, Mike Snyder, O. B. Thompson, Dale Clark, Ira Yocum, Jimmy Simms, Jud Martindale, Foy Hammons, Jr., Dub Oliver.
